Duty of Disclosure

Your Duty of Disclosure

Before you enter into an insurance contract, you have a duty to tell the insurer anything that you know, or could reasonably be expected to know, may affect the decision to insure you and on what terms.

You have this duty until the insurer agrees to insure you.

You have the same duty before you renew, extend, vary or reinstate an insurance contract.

You do not need to tell the insurer anything that:

- reduces the risk the insurer insures you for; or
- is common knowledge; or
- the insurer knows or should know as an insurer; or
- the insurer waives your duty to tell them about.

If you do not tell the insurer something or if you do not tell the insurer anything you are required to, the insurer may cancel your contract or reduce the amount the insurer pays you if you make a claim, or both.

If your failure to tell the insurer is fraudulent, the insurer may refuse to pay a claim and treat the contract as if it never existed.

Privacy Policy

We are committed to protecting your privacy. We provide your information to insurance companies and agents that provide insurance quotes and offer insurance terms to you or the companies that deal with your insurance claim (such as loss assessors and claims administrators).

Your information may be given to other Howden Group Companies overseas or to an overseas insurer (like Lloyd's of London) if we are seeking insurance terms from an overseas insurer, or to reinsurers who are located overseas. We also provide your information to the providers of our policy administration and broking systems that help us to provide our products and services to you.

If you don't provide us with full information, we can't properly advise you, seek insurance terms for you, or assist with claims and you could breach your duty of disclosure.

For more information about how to access the personal information we hold about you and how to have the information corrected and how to complain if you think we have breached the privacy laws, you can view our Privacy Policy at www.howdengroup.com/au-en/privacy-policy.

Acceptance of Declaration of Health

This insurance will not be in force and effect until the completed Declaration of Health and/or current veterinary certificate (if required) has been received and accepted by the Insurer. The Insurer reserves the right to decline any application.
